Confederate Reunion Notes.

A curious feature of the Confederate reunion will be the attendance of a number of Indians who served in the Confederate army, and who have been organized into Camp "Lou-noo-kee," a part of the Fourth Brigade of the North Carolina Division. The Indians are Cherokees, and live on the reservation in North Carolina.

The First Kentucky has accepted the invitation to take part in the sham battle to be held on Thursday of the reunion week. The arrangements for the regiment are in the hands of Col. Morris B. Gifford. Military companies from New Albany, Madison and Bloomington will take part.

The big war gun "Jeff Davis" will be placed on corner of Fifth and Jefferson. The gun is now at Fort Pillow.

All Confederate soldiers not able to board themselves, will be furnished everything free at the Louisville reunion, May 30, 31, June 1, 2, 3.

Gen. John B. Gordon, of Georgia, Commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans Association, believes that the Confederate Reunion held in Louisville in May will be by far the largest and most successful ever held. "The central location of the city," says the General, "will bring thousands of Confederates to the gathering who have heretofore not attended the annual meetings. From what I understand, no other city has ever made the preparations that Louisville is making to welcome the veterans. I am satisfied that not less than 25,000 will be here, then with 25,000 more visitors, including families, kinsmen and friends of the veterans, I think it safe to say that Louisville can expect to entertain 50,000 visitors."

CHAPTER I.

Old Jason Fanshaw sat at an open window, his fat legs on the sill. As he talked, his hearers in the big bare room nodded or stared at him with lack-luster eyes. He usually held forth on Sundays when the law and the Lord prohibited work and there was nowhere to go.

On this sultry afternoon his theme was his own misfortune in being burdened with a family that contributed naught to his desires. He had never, in exact words, voiced their shortcomings, but in his secret soul he would have had them perhaps less like himself, certainly less like his wife, who weighed 200 if she weighed a pound.

The two girls, Mary Lou, aged 18, and Ann Josephine, 20, threatened, as their bedslats continued to break, to surpass their mother in the flesh they were heir to, and in addition to this impediment to activity and encouragement of sloth, they had come honestly by a combination of their father's tow-colored and their mother's red hair, which little suited their florid complexions. They had, also, freckles as big as peck-marks, which a diligent application of "stump water" had failed to dim.

Fanshaw had two sons. Ronald, the eldest child, was not in the room. David, a lusty fellow built on his father's plan, but with a more cheerful face, was lying on the high-posted bed in the corner of the room. He always buried into his father's tirades against his family comments in favor of his brother, whom he admired intensely.

"You can't complain of Ron," he said this afternoon, as he fanned the flies from his face with his big straw hat lined with blue calico. "He looks after his own business. Mr. Hague said Saturday before last that he'd rather have Ron rent land from 'im than any man in the country. He 'lowed Ron paid every dollar he 'contracted to pay an' that the niggers liked 'im so much that they'd work twice as hard for 'im as they would for anybody else."

"That don't do me no good," snarled Fanshaw.

"No, I reckon not," admitted Dave, "but you won't ever be ashamed of 'im, if you are of the rest of us. He's been readin' and studyin' every spare minute since he was knee high to a grasshopper. For the last six months Mr. Redding, the best lawyer in Dan-eb, has been providin' 'im with books, an' my idea is that he's goin' to make a lawyer out'n hisself. You can't hold 'im down; he'll rise like a cork; an' as for good looks, gee-whillikins! Did I ever tell you-uns what happened at campmeetin'? I was a settin' under the bush arbor about four benches from the front last Sunday was a week when Ron come in dyked out in his best Sunday clothes. You ort to a-seed how the folks turned their heads. A young dude behind me axed a man next to 'im who in the thunder that was, an' the fellow said he wasn't certain, but he 'lowed it was some chap visitin' at Col. Hasbrooke's from Boston or New York. Then it was my turn in. I bent over an' informed 'em that it was Ronald Fanshaw, the oldest son of Jason Fanshaw. An' you ort to a-heard 'em giggle. Then the man that had axed the question come back at me fairly slobberin' in the mouth to keep from laughin' out loud."

"You're away off, my friend," sez he; "you shorly ain't acquainted 'bout beer. Old Fanshaw is the daddy of the sorriest lay-out on the face of creation. I hain't never been to his side-show myself, but I know a heap o' folks that has paid their way an' never axed for the money back, nuther."

"Then I jest punched my face over to his year an' said, I did: 'I ort to know 'im,' I says, tetchin' the butt o' my pistol. 'He's my brother, an' when meetin' is over me'n you'll go into the side-show for a minute; the tent's stretched right out thar in the bushes an' the latest addition to it is a Buffalo Bill dead shot."

"He witted an' got as white as the inside of a cucumber, an' then the preacher axed everybody to kneel down and pray. I was axin' the Lord to bless my purpose when them two rizin' an' poled it out over the straw. I half way got up, but the preacher broke off in his prayer an' began to talk about the law agin disturbin' public worship, an' I sunk down on my knees an' seed them two mount an' gallop off like the woods was afire."

"You ort to a-mashed 'is teeth down his throat," said Mrs. Fanshaw. "Folks has poked too much fun at us to suit me. In war times you wouldn't a-stood it, Jade." She called her husband Jade, not because he was tired or was a horse, but because it was the only abbreviation of the name she knew.

An expression of hot fury lay on Fanshaw's wrinkled face as he looked out into the yard where half a hundred darks, turkeys, guinea-hens and peacocks were feasting on the remains of the watermelon the family had just eaten. "My Lord," he grunted, "if I took folks to law ever time they joked about you-uns, I'd have my hands full."

"Well, they'd better not let me hear 'em throwin' off on us," declared Dave, and he stood up and stretched himself. "But when you come to think of it, Ron is no different from the rest of us that it's no wonder folks take 'im for one o' that highfalutin' crowd. I tell you, he's no slouch!"

Dave went out into the back porch, where a stream of water shot from the end of a hollow log into a trough; the water came from a spring on a hill-side half a mile distant. The inventor of this crude aqueduct was Ronald Fanshaw; he was only a boy when he conceived the idea, but he gave every spare moment to its construction. He had felled the trees, dug the long ditch through the meadows and fields, taken the level and completed what was still considered a marvel of convenience by the neighbors. While it was building, Jason Fanshaw had contributed many peevish objections to the work, which he considered a waste of time, but when the clear, cold water gushed out at his door, he melted under a blaze of wonder, and now no stranger ever came to his house who was not shown "the water-works."

"Huh," he would exclaim with pride, "nobody else has got a spring on his land high enough for such a thing. Col. Hasbrooke would pay no end o' money if he could have it. He has to keep two niggers busy fillin' his tank an' then the water's stale an' hot. You see, we sunk our pipes so deep that the water's as cold as ice."

A hundred yards from the house was a dense wood which stretched on to a small river a mile away, and further on to a high mountain, and here Dave found his brother lying on the grass reading his Blackstone. In his unlikeness to his family he was an anomaly; he was over six feet in height, well built, slender, dark of complexion, hair and eyes. There was in the shapely prominence of his brow a suggestion of strong mentality one might look for in vain in any of the other Fanshaws; his limbs had the slight, strong look of a blooded horse; a palmist would have said that his hands indicated the possession of a refined, sensitive spirit.

"Oh, I had no idea you was heer!" exclaimed Dave. "I jest thought I'd take a walk to git away from all that clatter up at the house. An' to tell you the truth, I've got a quart hid in that stump thar; don't you want to wet yore whistle, as the feller said? I have to keep it hid from the old man; he's too all-fired stingy to buy whiskey, but he loves it like a hog does slop."

"You know I never drink," replied the other, firmly. His words formed a striking contrast to the dialect of his brother; there was a vague sadness of tone in his voice, and his eyes drooped as if they were weary of the print upon which they had been resting.

"Well, I reckon you won't mind ef I take a pull at it," said Dave. "I'm dry as a powder-horn." He removed a flat stone from the hollow of the stump and took out his flask. "Here's lookin' at you," and the neck of the bottle went into his mouth.

"I suppose they made me the subject of their talk, as usual," said Ronald, when Dave had replaced the flask under the stone and sat on the stump, his legs crossed.

"Not any more'n common, Ron; they've got to talk; talkin' comes as natural to women as cluckin' does to hens; the only difference is hens cluck when they're busy, an' cackle when they're laid; the time to git away from a woman's tongue is when she's idle, an' that's all the time. But, honest, I don't see why they won't let you alone. You want to read an' study, because it suits you, an' I am with you, tooth an' toe nail. Now, I had my head set on ranch life out west, because I literally love hoss flesh an' cattle-raisin', but they all come down on me like a landslide an' I's had to hoe corn an' cotton like a nigger fur about forty cents a day, when I might a been makin' two dollars an' a-had my independence."

Ronald Fanshaw smiled genially, but he made no reply, and Dave sauntered away to the river to see if his trout lines had caught anything. When he found himself alone our hero fell to dreaming of his past life. Above the tree-tops half a mile to the east, or a slight elevation, he could see the high, steep roof and dormer windows of the chief mansion of the locality, "Carnleigh," the splendid home of the county's greatest planter, Col. Henry Hasbrooke.

The house, in its silent grandeur, representing wealth and power, had been a potent factor in the struggles of this young man towards the acquisition of things above and beyond him in the dreamy blue realm of possibility. Its massive Corinthian columns, its vast white proportions and its aristocratic inmates, whom he saw driving along the roads, told him constantly what he and his family were not. Up to his twenty-fifth year his fancy had dared to play only about the exterior of this old family seat, but of late his imagination—call it ambition, if you will, had led him beyond the mystic portals, and he walked there with men and ladies; he dined there; he discussed topics he had read with the white-haired host; he stood near the piano and heard Evelyn Hasbrooke play and sing; he saw her white hands flit over the keys, and felt her smile up at him. And then the bubble would burst and the grim, sordid contrast of his real existence would grasp and wring the gall from his soul. Evelyn Hasbrooke was unwittingly responsible for these later dreams. He had rendered her a service the preceding summer when she was home from school. To him the act was nothing, but when it was over she had hung white and quivering on his arm, and in that wonderful cadence of hers had told him that he had saved her life. He had helped her over the fence and felt the warmth of her breath on his face. They had stood and chatted for awhile and then they had parted. He had not seen her since, for she was at school in Boston, but he had never forgotten the glory of her deep, gray eyes, the infinite sweetness and beauty of her face. A thousand times since that moment he had wondered if she, too, remembered. Sometimes when his hopes were brightest he fancied that she did—that she must if only because his mind was on her so constantly.

CHAPTER II.

About a week after this he heard that she was home again to remain, her school days being over. His informant also told him that Carnleigh was to have visitors—Mr. James Hardy, a cotton merchant, of Charleston, who was supposed to be a suitor for the hand of the colonel's eldest daughter, Caroline, and Capt. Charles Winkle, who owned a fine plantation five miles beyond the mountain and was believed to be an admirer of the young debutante.

Ronald was longing to see Evelyn again, but he met the two sisters and their escorts sooner than he desired. He had taken his books and fishing tackle to a shady nook on the river bank and was just getting settled when he heard merry laughter in the wood between the river and the road and a moment later the two couples emerged from the tangle of cane vines and foliage. Instinctively Ronald drew his wide-brimmed straw hat down over his eyes, and Evelyn did not recognize him for a moment. He had resolved that he should never speak to her again unless she showed a disposition to renew their informal acquaintance, and he was averse to putting her to the test before the others. But Capt. Winkle knew by sight (he did not bother himself with their names) nearly all of what he jokingly termed "the white trash" of that section, and he usually addressed them without ceremony or courtesy. For a moment he paused watching Ronald's line, and then he asked:

"Are they biting, my man?" Ronald felt the hot blood of anger rush to his face and his fingers tightened on his rod. It was on his tongue to retort sharply, but Evelyn's presence helped him control his temper. He made no reply. Capt. Winkle curled his mustache with his white fingers; he thought the fisherman had not heard his question.

"I see you have some bait, my good fellow," he said in a louder tone. "Will you let me have some of your crickets? the boy has not come with ours," and the captain tossed a silver coin on the grass near Ronald. There was a pause. Ronald was conscious that Evelyn and Mr. Hardy had moved on and that Miss Caroline was waiting for Winkle. Then our hero picked up the piece of silver and tossed it into the stream, at the same moment he doffed his hat and lifted his basket of crickets.

"I should hate to see ladies lose their sport."

"Oh, no, Capt. Winkle!" objected Miss Caroline, "do not mind them; we are very much obliged, I hear the boy coming now."

As she turned away and the captain was following her he looked back and said with a sneer:

"I think, Miss Hasbrooke, that we'd better go further down the stream; he'll be diving for that money and will frighten all the fish."

Ronald's ear had never been so acute; he heard Caroline Hasbrooke's low, guarded voice above the rustling of the leaves against her stiff duck skirt. "You ought not to have noticed him," she said; "that's one of old man Fanshaw's sons; he has taken up the study of law, and it seems to have given him the big head."

"You don't tell me," laughed the captain, "haw, haw!"

Then the negro boy, carrying a basket of crickets, passed at the top of his speed. Ronald baited his hook and flung the line into the stream; his hands were quivering; he was almost beside himself with rage. The drone of voices told him that the fishing party had paused about forty yards away. The reflection of the sunlight on the face of the water was maddening. This, then, was his long dreamed of meeting with Evelyn; she would hear her sister's account of what had taken place after she had moved on. Half an hour passed; a fish nibbled at his bait, taking his line round in a circle, but he did not notice it. Suddenly there was a light step on the grass near him. It was Evelyn Hasbrooke and she came to him with hand outstretched.

"You must pardon me, Mr. Fanshaw," she faltered. "I did not recognize you under that big hat. I did not know it was you till sister mentioned it just now."

He stood up, dropping his hat on the ground. "I really did not presume that you would care to renew our slight acquaintance," he stammered, red in the face.

A pained expression passed over her beautiful features. "I can't remember anything I have done to make you think so ill of me, Mr. Fanshaw."

She seated herself on the roof of a tree and opened the novel she held in her hands. He found himself unable to formulate a suitable reply and he drew in his line and put another cricket on his hook.

"I am afraid," she said, searching his face, "that Capt. Winkle offended you just now. I am sorry that a guest of our house should fail to treat anyone—especially—with due courtesy, and I am glad you rebuked him as you did."

"You are very kind, Miss Hasbrooke."

"My sister is Miss Hasbrooke," she said, with a little laugh. "I am still little Evelyn, even if I have laid my school books away."

Again she had made an unanswerable remark, and silence fell between them. He broke it after a moment's pause.

"But you have grown; you are" (he wanted to say more beautiful) "different."

"I presume a year does change a girl, but you are just the same, Mr. Fanshaw—exactly the same."

A LITTLE ROMANCE.

Short Story of Tenement Life That Will Disappoint Sticklers for a Conventional Climax.

"Step! Step! Step!" It was some one mounting the stairs. It was a slow and heavy step, and there was something grim and greivous about it—something to tell the listener that the sole owner and proprietor of the step was a top-shouldered son of a gun without enough mercy in his heart to grease a sunflower seed.

"Tis he—the landlord!" gasped the woman, who sat in the gloom of her garret room with white face and palpitating heart.

The step came nearer—the frail door was kicked open, and Adamant Flintstone stood before her and said:

"Woman, I am here! If you cannot pay me my rent, out you go!"

"Oh, Mr. Flintstone, have you no heart?" wailed the unfortunate.

"Not a bit. Pay or go!"

"But think of your mother!"

"I haven't any."

"Then your sisters."

"Never had one."

"Is it possible that because I owe you $120 rent you will drive me out on the street on a night like this?"

"I am in the landlord business for money," was his unfeeling reply.

"But you can't expect that Heaven will prosper a man that has neither pity nor mercy?"

"I can. I am making 14 per cent. on my investment. Will you pay, or shall I chuck you out of the window?"

"I—I will pay!" she sobbed, as the storm increased and the wind tried to shake the stuffing out of the old tenement.

And, pulling two $100 bills out of her pocket, she handed them out and received $80 in change, and Adamant Flintstone chuckled in his frozen heart as he turned away and left her trying to choke herself to death with a button-hook.—Washington Post.

Cause of the Earth's Magnetism.

The mystery of the earth's magnetism is a problem that has baffled the wisest scientists of all times and countries. No even approximate explanation of this great force of nature has ever been offered until within the past few weeks it was announced that Dr. Henry A. Rowland professor of physics in the Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, had devised a machine that would afford opportunities for experimenting into the causes of magnetic force. Prof. Rowland's theory is that a body moving rapidly through the air will generate within itself a strong electrical current. If this idea can be proven, then the swift flight of the earth through space will explain its electrical influences. The machine which Prof. Rowland has invented to test his theories is a wheel, wound with fine wire, revolving about a shaft, inside a casing, which allows space for a layer of air about the wheel. The wheel represents the earth, and the layer of air the atmosphere. In the preliminary experiments it is already proven that the revolution of the wheel develops magnetism in the wire, more or less, according to the swiftness of the revolutions. An endless variety of delicate experiments will be made with this machine by Prof. Rowland and his assistants, with a view of securing the definite solution of the earth's secret of magnetic force.—Ledger Monthly.

Love's Greatest Sacrifice.

Mother—Are you sure you love him? Daughter—Am I sure! Do you see this dress?

"Of course I do. What of it?"

"Will you kindly tell me if it bears the slightest resemblance to the present fashion?"

"Well, really, it is—it is—it is—it doesn't!"

"Well, I'm wearing it because he likes it!"—Tit-Bits.

A Palpable Mistake.

Mr. Snipkins—Ah, Mrs. Highmind, I have been wonderfully struck by the strong resemblance you bear to your husband.

Mrs. Highmind—Young man, you are altogether wrong. I do not bear any resemblance whatever to my husband. My husband looks like me, that is all!—Chicago Times-Herald.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

Summary of Leading Events.

Washington, May 10.—Senate—The case involving the seat of Mr. Clark, of Montana, was postponed until next Tuesday. A bill was passed to pay Mary A. Swift $12,000, one year's salary of her husband, John E. Swift, who died while serving as United States minister to Japan. The session was concluded with eulogies on the late Representative Samuel Bair, of Louisiana.

House—By the very narrow margin of two votes the house unseated Mr. Crawford, of North Carolina, a democrat, and seated in his place Mr. Pearson, of North Carolina. He is the third republican to be seated by the present house. The minority resolution declaring the sitting member entitled to the seat was defeated by one vote.

Washington, May 11.—Senate—The entire session was devoted to a discussion of the naval appropriation bill. It was decided to vote on the measure at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

House—All records were broken in passing private pension bills. There were exactly 150 passed. The principal one among them was the senate bill providing for the widow of the late Gen. Guy L. Henry at the rate of $100 per month.

Washington, May 12.—Senate—The session was entirely devoted to a consideration of the naval appropriation bill, the main feature being a defeat of the proposition to erect a government plant for the production of armor.

House—The session was brief and of no particular interest. A few bills of minor importance were passed.

Washington, May 14.—Senate—The naval appropriation bill was passed. It provides $4,000,000 for a government armor plant in case armor can not be purchased for $445 per ton. Other bills passed were the "free home" bill; to survey Cleveland harbor, with a view to its further improvement; for the improvement of Snake river in Washington and Idaho; providing for a collector of customs for Hawaii.

House—The general deficiency bill was passed. It carries $3,320,021. The debate was devoted principally to political topics. The military academy bill is the last of the supply bills yet to be acted on by the house.

Washington, May 15.—Senate—Just as the routine business was concluded Mr. Clark, of Montana, arose and in a long speech announced that he had sent his resignation to the governor of Montana. The resolution relating to Mr. Clark went over, and the senate proceeded to the transaction of routine business. Little business of importance was transacted.

House—The military academy appropriation bill was passed and sent to the senate. This is the last of the general appropriation measures, and the house will be ready to adjourn as soon as the senate disposes of those it has not passed and the two houses adjust the differences in conference.

Washington, May 16.—Senate—Nearly 100 bills were passed, 77 of them being private pension bills, among them being one granting $100 a month to the widow of Gen. Lawton. All the other bills were of a local nature.

House—But little was accomplished besides passing the senate bill to incorporate the American National Red Cross. No progress was made with the Alaskan code bill. The conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill was returned after extended debate.

BOER REPRESENTATIVES.

It is Probable the Envoys Will Visit a Majority of the Cities in the United States.

New York, May 17.—Beyond a drive through central park and the principal localities of interest in the city, no programme was arranged for the Boer envoys Wednesday. They spent the forenoon in answering telegrams and letters from more than sixty cities in the United States from which invitations had been received.

An effort is being made to arrange a plan so that the envoys can visit a majority of the cities. Probably they will leave for Washington on Friday. C. H. Wessels, one of the envoys, discarded the cable dispatches to the effect that President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, is said to have lashed the Free Staters to make them fight. He said the Free Staters were all working together and in perfect harmony. Mr. Wessels was also asked concerning the English advances and successes reported in recent cables. He said: "Everything is going according to the plan of action prepared some time ago. Every time we fall back it is given out as a British success, but it is all a pre-considered plan and does not hurt us in any way. The final crisis has not yet come. What I consider the crucial test will be at the Vaal river, near Pretoria. I do not think that the stories published about the British successes are neutral news, but highly optimistic from a British standpoint."

Negro Lynched By White Men.

Meridian, Miss., May 17.—Parties arriving here bring the news of the lynching of a Negro, Sam Hinson, by a mob of white men near Cushtusha. Hinson was employed on the farm of Mrs. Eliza Adams, and attempted to murder her. He was prevented by the arrival of neighbors who heard Mrs. Adams' screams. The Negro fled, but was captured and lynched.

No Additional Gold Duty.

Rio De Janeiro, May 16.—It is officially announced that the government will not ask congress to impose an additional gold duty on imports. It is possible, however, that the gold duty may be raised and a corresponding reduction made in paper duties.

Ex-Queen Lili Leaves for Hawaii.

Washington, May 16.—Liliuokalani, ex-queen of Hawaii, and her retinue, left Washington Tuesday for Honolulu. Her health is much enfeebled and it is not likely that she will return to this country.

Proposed Alliance with England.

If the United States and England should form an alliance, the combined strength would be so great that there would be little chance for enemies to overcome us. In a like manner, when men and women keep up their bodily strength with Hutter's Stomach Bitters, there is little chance of attack from disease. The old time remedy cures the blood, builds up the muscles, steadies the nerves and increases the appetite. Try it.

Willing to Show 'Em.

An honest young man, who had escaped a great peril by an act of heroism, was much complimented for his bravery. One lady said: "I wish I could have been your feat." Whereupon he blushed and stammered, and finally pointing to his pedal extremities, said: "Well, here they be, mum."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SEE TO THE WALLS.

A Danger in Schoolrooms and How to Prevent It.

Owing to the gathering of so many different classes of persons therein, the interior walls of churches, schoolhouses, hospitals, etc., are apt to become repositories of disease germs unless prevented by measures taken. These walls should always be coated with a clean and pure cement, such as Alabastine, which is disinfected in its nature and more convenient to renew and repaint than any other wall coating. The first cost is no greater than for inferior work, while renewals are more easily and cheaply made.

Unwelcome Friendship.

"I want to say to you," roared the red-faced passenger, "that I am a friend to the Boers, all the time." "Well," said the slim passenger, who was in a corner of the car, where he couldn't escape, "I hadn't thought much about it, but if you are with them I am sorry for them myself."—Indianapolis Press.

PROBABLY DEFEATED.

Pretoria Advances Say British Sustained Heavy Loss at Mafeking.

Lord Roberts, With His Infantry, Is Still at Kroonstad, With His Cavalry Stretched Out for Many Miles.

London, May 17.—The British relief column fought the Boers at Kral Pan, 22 miles south of Mafeking, on Tuesday, according to a telegram received Wednesday night at Lorenzo Marques from Mafeking, 100 miles north of Mafeking. This intelligence is accepted here with some reserve, because it is difficult to understand how the news could have been so quickly put on the wire from a place 132 miles from the scene of the engagement.

A correspondent of the Morning Post, presumably John Stuart, is reported captured by the Boers at Kral Pan.

The British public is keenly expectant of the announcement that Mafeking has been relieved. In army circles the opinion seems to prevail that this has already been accomplished, although the war office asserted that news of the relief had not been received. The steadfast courage of the longer-bitten garrison has produced a deep impression, and the news of success is awaited with more anxiety than had been felt regarding any other event of the war.

Douglas Story, the Daily Mail's correspondent at Pretoria, wires: "The Boer government is holding back some big news. I've been active in the line. President Kruger is working day and night. The latest Boer official bulletin is that the relief column has been defeated with great loss."

Lord Roberts continues passive at Kroonstad. His cavalry are stretching like a semi-circular screen many miles in length, without lapping flanks.

The Kroonstad censor permits the passage of long dispatches dealing with incidents prior to the occupation. It seems that Gen. French's cavalry had one lively fight after crossing the Zand River. A mixed squadron, composed of the Scots Greys, the Inniskillings, Carbineers and Australian horse, took a kopje and dismounted. The Boers suddenly fired from a concealed position, killing many horses and stampeding the rest. The Boers then advanced in overwhelming numbers and drove the squadron, capturing some. The Boers robbed the dead and looted the saddles. A small brigade of cavalry drove them off.

Further north the Hussars charged the Boers, killing and wounding many, and capturing with sabers and pistols.

Gen. Buller is moving toward Newcastle. He appears to be using 25,000 men against 5,000 or 6,000. His operations will almost certainly result in his forcing his way into the Transvaal possibly in time to co-operate with Lord Roberts' advance, although Gen. Buller is now 232 miles from Johannesburg, or 25 days' march.

Gen. Buller is sweeping through the northeast of the Free State. The Boers are dissolving before him and some are surrendering. Their main force is assembled between Ficksburg and Winburg, but it is without close organization.

The war story from every part of the field is therefore seemingly a narrative of British successes; but, with the Boers preparing for a last desperate fighting farther in the interior and with Boer guerrilla parties looting houses and stores in the northwest section of Cape Colony, it is not all roses for the British.

London, May 17.—The most important development in Wednesday's war news is the statement called from Cape Town announcing that the Boer delegates had advised the Transvaal to surrender if defeated at the east. This remarkable announcement is vouched for on good authority, and evidently obtains more credence in Cape Town than would a mere rumor.

The occupation of Glencoe was merely a logical sequel of Gen. Buller's advance and the Boers' retreating movement. As usual the Boers are reported to be flying precipitately, but, also, as usual, the accounts add that their transport and guns were removed in safety, which in itself is a contradiction of any statement that the Boers were panic-stricken.

TWO BOATS CAPSIZED.

Between Thirty and Forty Persons Were Drowned While Returning From a Chapel.

Horn, May 17.—A terrible accident, resulting in the death of from 30 to 40 persons, took place at Ronciglione, on the lake of Vico, during a celebration of the fete of St. Lucie, whose chapel is on the shore of the lake.

Two boats filled with young people capsized while returning from the chapel within 100 yards of the landing stage. Only thirteen persons were saved.

Grand Stand Burned.

New York, May 16.—The grand stand, the famous glass betting ring and all the buildings of the race track at Cifton, N. J., were entirely destroyed by fire Monday night. The total loss is $100,000. The fire was the work of incendiaries.

The Commissioners Arrive. New York, May 15.—The steamer Magonia, from Rotterdam, with the four commissioners, C. B. Wessels, Charles Fisher and A. D. W. Wolmar, arrived, was sighted Tuesday morning.

STRIKE IS STILL ON.

An Agreement Made By the Strikers' Executive Committee Rejected By the Men.

St. Louis, May 17.—The eyes of the public and strikers alike were focused on the congress called to effect a settlement of the differences existing between the St. Louis Transit Co. and the grievance committee of its small army of strikers. The conference was in session from early in the afternoon until 9:15 o'clock at night, and at its conclusion members of the grievance committee announced that an agreement had been reached with the railway officials, but that they were not in a position to announce its terms till the compact had been ratified by the executive committee of the striking employees.

The executive committee was in session at Waltham hall, awaiting developments in the conference, and the grievance committee at once hurried thither, and both committees went into secret session. After a two hours' session the executive committee of the strikers rejected the agreement arrived at between the Transit Co. and the strikers' grievance committee. The strike is still on.

R. M. Barker, a striking conductor, was shot in the thigh during an attack on a Citizen's line car on Easton avenue. The wound is not dangerous.

COFFEE TRADE TIED UP.

No More Vessels From Rio de Janeiro Will Be Permitted to Land at New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 17.—The state board of health passed resolutions declaring that the coffee ship Corsica, with cargo from Rio de Janeiro, would not be allowed to land until 30 days' fumigation and detention, and, in case no symptoms of bubonic plague developed at the end of that time, the Corsica sailed from Rio on April 15, at which time there were several cases of plague there.

As a result of the action of the board, S. V. Fornis & Co., the local agents for the French line of vessels to which the Corsica belongs, called to Paris canceling all sailing of coffee steamers via Brazil to this port for the rest of the year. The result of this action is the total annihilation of the coffee business in so far as New Orleans is concerned.

A large number of local coffee importers petitioned the board of health at its meeting to allow the Corsica to land, on the ground that the steamer Coleridge had been permitted to land in New York this week, although sailing from Rio two days later than the Corsica. The local board, instead of receiving this petition favorably, denounced the action of the New York board as being extremely reprehensible.

The several states may continue to exercise such power in any manner not in conflict with the laws of the United States.

"Sec. 3. Congress shall have power to enforce the provisions of this article by appropriate legislation."

THE CUBAN SCANDAL.

Havana's Postmaster and Three Other Persons Now in Jail.

Four Postal Inspectors Have Begun the Work of Investigation—Additional Facts Brought Out By Every Arrest Made.

Havana, May 15.—The extent of the postal frauds is far greater than what was originally expected. Besides taking in the postal department, the frauds seem to include the local officers at Havana and various other officers throughout the island, and also to have extended to outside points which have been used for the sale of some of the old issue of stamps that were ordered destroyed.

The result of the investigation at the local post office is the suspension of Postmaster Thompson, who was installed in April of last year. He will remain at his own house for the present. Moya and Mascaro, stamp sellers in the main office, have also been arrested, and further arrests are expected soon. As many as six others have been placed under the closest surveillance, and they will be arrested as soon as their services can be spared. As a matter of fact, if they were all to be subsequently relieved of duty, it would not be possible to carry on the postal department of Havana.

Washington, May 15.—The postmaster general, after a protracted interview with the president, announced that Joseph L. Bristow, fourth assistant postmaster general, will proceed to Havana next Wednesday to take charge of the postal affairs of the island of Cuba.

Havana, May 17.—Warrants were issued for the arrest of E. P. Thompson, the Havana postmaster; W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor of the island, and Edward Moya and Jorge Mascaro. Cuban clerks in the stamp department, and all were lodged in the Yvaca, the Tombs of Havana. This was done under the advice of the postal inspectors. It is considered now that Reeves is equally guilty with Neely.

Investigation as to the record of the clerk in the military department who handled several hundred dollars' worth of stamps proves that the transaction, so far as he is concerned, was legitimate. The stamps were purchased at the request of his brother, who is a stamp collector in the United States, for $800. They were of the old issue and were obtained from Neely.

The arrest of Thompson caused great surprise in the city. It is looked upon as the precursor of many other arrests. Gen. Wood felt, as did the special inspectors, that it would be better to have the suspected persons arrested, and to give the men opportunity to obtain bail, than to keep them indefinitely under close surveillance at a time when the detectives are badly needed for other work.

As the affair stands now, Mr. Thompson's career in the postal service must necessarily cease, even if he escapes a term of imprisonment. Moreover, his action in giving orders to postal clerks to alter figures regarding stamps at the request of Corrydon Rich, without notifying Mr. Rathbone, makes things look worse, even if he acted innocently in the belief that everything was correct.

Four postal inspectors arrived here and, after conferences with Gen. Wood and Mr. Rathbone, immediately began work. Mr. Rathbone declares there is not the slightest jealousy between the military authorities and the post department here and that Gen. Wood and himself are working in harmony.

Early developments connected with the frauds, it is asserted, tend to show the far-reaching influence of Neely, and every man who is placed under arrest brings to light additional facts. Each one seems willing to tell all he knows regarding Neely, while endeavoring to exonerate himself. The only person, however, who will be accepted by the authorities as a witness for the state is Corrydon Rich, who will not be placed in jail, but will be closely watched, as it is felt that his testimony is absolutely indispensable.

Political Topics.

The Seventh District Republican Convention met Tuesday at Lexington and elected Judge H. C. Howard, of this city, and R. P. Stoll, of Lexington, delegates to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia. C. O. Reynolds was elected a member of the State Central Committee.

Gen. Joseph H. Lewis is being urged to become a Democratic candidate for Governor in the event the Supreme Court decision is of the sort to make another election this Fall necessary.

Judge John H. Westover will this week formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress, to succeed Col. Al Berry.

The new primary law, which permits practically the election of Senators by direct vote, was given a satisfactory test in Georgia.

I. O. O. F. Encampment.

The annual grand encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the State, which met in Mt. Sterling Wednesday morning, after hearing committee reports and transacting other business, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: J. W. Groves, of Mt. Sterling Grand Patriarch; Charles Tucker, Newport, Grand High Priest; J. Barbour Russell, Maysville, Grand Senior Warden; W. M. Todd, Middlesboro, Grand Junior Warden; R. G. Elliott, Lexington, Grand Scribe; George W. Morris, Louisville, Grand Treasurer. Mr. Morris has held the latter office for fifty consecutive years. The following are the appointed officers: C. P. Scott, Ghent, Grand Marshal; W. W. Storts, Louisville, Grand Sentinel; A. E. Burke, Versailles, Grand Guardian. The encampment then adjourned sine die to meet in Louisville the third Wednesday in May, 1901.

The visiting Odd Fellows were given a superb banquet Wednesday night at Masonic Temple. There were plates for 250.

The Encampment shows a larger increase in both members and finance than any year since it was instituted. Paris was represented by E. B. January, E. D. Paton, W. H. H. Johnson, G. W. Paulcomer. Mr. January was nominated without opposition for the high position of Grand High Patriarch, but declined in favor of J. W. Groves, of Mt. Sterling.

Federal Veteran Honored.

Col. W. H. Knauss, of Columbus, O., who was a Colonel in the Federal army during the civil war, will be one of the happiest veterans at the big Confederate reunion in Louisville, May 30 to June 3. For years Col. Knauss has been decorating the graves of the Confederates buried at Columbus, and in appreciation of this act of brotherly love the Confederate Veterans Association of Kentucky will present him with a beautiful gold medal watch chain.

One side of the medal shows the Confederate and the Federal battle flags crossed, over which is the inscription "From Confederate Veterans Association of Kentucky." The other side shows two soldiers clasping hands—one wearing the blue and the other the gray—above which appears the inscription "To Col. W. H. Knauss, Columbus, O." The idea of presenting the medal was suggested by A. T. Forsyth, of this city, and the medal was designed by A. J. Winters & Co., of this city, who have the gift on exhibition.

Gen. Poyntz, Commander of the Kentucky Confederate Veterans, has selected Capt. James R. Rogers, of Bourbon, to make the presentation speech at Louisville.

Mr. Fred. Bauer, of Maysville, was in the city on a business trip, and spent several hours at The News office. It was his first visit to The News since he set up our cylinder press eighteen years ago. Mr. Bauer now owns a prosperous job office in Maysville.

A Painful Memory.

A lady who lives on Morgan street took her 5-year-old son to a photographer's to have his picture taken. She was anxious to secure a good likeness at this particular sitting because she wished to distribute the pictures among some friends who were then her guests.

The child's idea of the affair, however, did not apparently harmonize with that of his mother, for when the man with the camera began to adjust the lens and direct it toward little Edward that young person set up what was unquestionably a howl.

In vain did the mother call into use her utmost forensic abilities. Edward did not want his picture taken.

"Why, my child," she said soothingly, "the gentleman won't hurt you. Just smile and keep still a moment, and it will be all over before you know it."

"Yes, I know, mamma," whimpered the youth, with the tears running down his cheeks, "but that's what you told me at the dentist's."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

FIRST WIG IN HISTORY.

It Was Worn by the Daughter of Saul, King of Israel.

The first wig mentioned in history was made of a goat's skin and worn by the daughter of Saul, king of Israel. The first artistic wigs were made in the south of Italy for the Gapiulens, who lived in Apulia and were known for the luxuries of their toilet. These people were, they say, the first who painted their faces. This they did with the juice of strawberries.

The Persians wore wigs. Xenophon relates that little Cyrus, when he visited Astyages, his grandfather, whose eyes were framed in blue paint and who wore an enormous wig, threw himself on his knees and cried, "Oh, mother, what a beautiful grandfather I have!" Aglais, a maid of honor, was so struck by the appearance of the old gentleman that she remained with Astyages as a slave.

The Phoenician women, who were proud of their hair, having been ordered by their priests to offer it up on the altars dedicated to Venus after the death of Adonis, obeyed, but with murmuring. Soon after they were consoled by a Greek merchant, who told them that he would give them the means of hiding their bald pates under luxurious curls. In his chariot he had hundreds of wigs of all colors.

Wigs were in vogue in Rome toward the end of the republic and so well made that, says Ovid, "no man could know if his wife had any hair at all before she had given him an opportunity of seizing her by the tresses."

Tentative peasants were the providers of blond hair for rich Roman princesses, who loved the contrast of its flaxen hue with their black eyes. They even had morning wigs, small and tightly curled, of any color, and they kept the beautiful fair ones to receive their admirers at night. Messalina had 150 wigs to disguise herself.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

THE SAMPLE FIEND.

It Takes Lots of Material to Supply the Sampler's Demands.

Coming suddenly upon a salesman in a retail store who had a number of yard long lengths of new piques liberally sprinkled with those little price tags (the pins all stuck through the several thicknesses and bent down), one understood all at once the full import of the demands of the sample fiend. Marked off evenly like a check-board, with 17 price tags lengthwise and seven to the width, which made 119 to the yard, the salesman was going over the lot with a pencil, setting down the width and price on each.

At one store the one who is at the head of each stock attends to the preparing of the samples of his particular stock. Thus the pique samples would be cut by one, samples of swiss by another, of organdie by another, and so on. In the silk department one man, who is kept for the purpose, does it all. And it takes all his time.

For people from a distance who do their buying by mail this is of course a very good method. But the part to which all sane people take exception is the senseless sampling of those who wander aimlessly about, evidently gathering samples as a thoughtless child sometimes pulls twigs in passing bushes. The worst of it is we have to pay for this senseless woman's foolishness. One clerk says that he has actually seen thrown upon the sidewalk the samples given to a woman after showing her his whole stock, her purchase being ostensibly postponed because of her fear that the goods will not match something or other.

The time is past when these scraps went to feed the insatiable crazy quilt fiends.—Philadelphia Record.

His Resentment.

A Memphis young lady who is very fond of her sister's little child, a boy of 2 or 3 years, who is visiting her now, was trying yesterday to get him to let her "fix him up" to have his photograph taken. She got her curling tongs and was trying to coax him to let her curl his hair. But with true boyish disgust at the idea of having his hair treated like a girl's he refused to submit to the process. She insisted, however, and offered him every kind of bribe, but in every instance he refused to allow her to do what she wished, and finally, becoming tired of her attempt to get him to submit, he sat down, crossed his legs and looked up at her very seriously and said:

"Auntie, I tell you what I'll do. I won't take a dollar to let you curl my hair, but I'll give you a dollar if you just go away and let my hair alone."—Memphis Scimitar.

Wounded in Battle.

An army loses far more of its strength through its wounded than through its killed. In the first place there are four or five wounded to one killed, and in the second place the dead men give no trouble, while the wounded require an immense number of noncombatants to attend to them. A great many of the wounded return again to duty, their wounds being comparatively slight, but as a rule more than half of them take no more part in the war.—London Answers.

The Poet's Choice.

"I don't care for your poem, 'The Song of the Lark,'" remarked the editor. The poet sighed wearily. "To tell the truth," he replied, "I myself much prefer the lay of the hen."—Philadelphia Record.

Among birds the swan lives to be the oldest, in extreme cases reaching 300 years. The falcon has been known to live over 102 years.

The average duration of marriages in England is 23 years; in France and Germany, 20; Norway, 24; Russia, 30.

Miss Darsie, who was elected in place of Miss Marion Shackelford, is a sister of Eld. Lloyd Darsie.

A Postoffice Matter.

Hearing a street rumor to the effect that a shortage had been discovered in the Paris Postoffice, THE NEWS interviewed Postmaster Bosley on the subject Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Bosley informed THE NEWS that since he had been postmaster the office had been twice checked up by inspectors on their regular rounds and found to be in splendid condition. Mr. Bosley also told THE NEWS on February 24th there was an apparent shortage in the office of about $300 which was reduced by the collection of about $100 in box rents and newspaper postage, leaving a deficit of $160. Mr. Bosley promptly settled this with the inspector, and does not owe the Department a cent.

Mr. Bosley told THE NEWS that he did not know just where this shortage or mistake occurred, but that he clearly exonerated all of the postoffice employees.

In March Mr. Bosley in a moment of haste sent in his resignation as postmaster, but he withdrew it a few days later, and has asked the Department for a searching investigation to exonerate himself and his office.

Paralyzed By Fear.

Tuesday morning while George Craig, of Frankfort, was walking with a companion along the high trestle over Elkhorn near Georgetown, a Kentucky Midland train came up behind them. Craig seemed to be paralyzed by fear and was unable to move and was run over and killed by the train. His head was cut off and his body was horribly mangled. His companion stepped to one side on a beam and escaped injury. Craig was forty years old and was unmarried. The railroad people were not to blame.

Paris Horses Win.

Tuesday at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Talbott Bros., fast handicap horse, John Bright, by Sir Dixon-Brightlight, won a $400 handicap, running the mile and fifty yards in 1:42½, equaling the world's record for that distance. The last mile was run in 1:39 which beats the famous Ten Brock's record against time. This performance stamps John Bright as the best handicap horse in America.

E. F. Shinn's horse The Kentuckian won a mile race Monday at the Morris Park course, in the East, running the mile in the fast time of 1:39¾. The added money was $700.

A Protest Against Paris.

Prof. A. E. Reubelt, Superintendent of the Paris High School, has received a letter from the managers of the Blue Grass Graded School Tournament which meets next week in Winchester, protesting against pupils of the Paris schools participating in the Tournament. The reason given was on account of the smallpox scare in Paris.

No pupil of the Paris High School has had the smallpox, and the roster of the names including children from the best families in Paris.

The "scare" resulted because of some cases which developed in negro villages. The Paris High School had not contemplated sending any colored pupils to the Graded School Tournament.

Many pupils of the High School had prepared to attend the Tournament and they feel the protest keenly though they do not care to go where they are not wanted. It will be remembered that the annual Graded School Tournament was inaugurated in this city.

THERE ISN'T A GARMENT TO WHICH YOU CAN TAKE THE SLIGHTEST EXCEPTION

either in style, quality or price. The question of price has been settled, we believe, to your satisfaction, long ago. Nothing that we offer can be sold, quality considered, as cheaply by any other house in town. Bring your boys, big and little. A fine line of wash suits.

When both frames and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy Imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Next visit—Thursday, May 31, 1900. Hello, 170.

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and sweetest-looking of them all. My wife thinks MOTHER'S FRIEND is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."—Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. MOTHER'S FRIEND takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

Sold by druggists for $1 a bottle.

HEALTHY OLD AGE SSS

The majority of persons upon reaching middle age and past find their blood becomes weak and thin, and diseases that were easily controlled in earlier life begin to affect the constitution.

Those predisposed to Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Gout and other hereditary troubles may escape till then, but as they age the blood, so long tainted and weakened by accumulated waste matters, is no longer able to properly nourish the body, and it becomes an easy mark for disease. At this critical period of life the blood must be re-enforced before it can perform its legitimate functions and rid the system of these poisons, and nothing so surely and effectually does this as S. S. S.

S. S. S. strengthens and enriches the blood, improves the appetite, and builds up the general constitution. It is not only the best blood purifier, but the best tonic for old people. It warms the blood, tones up the nerves, removes all taint from the blood, and prevents the development of disease.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood medicine known. Not one particle of mercury, potash or other mineral poison can be found in it, and it may be taken for any length of time without harm.

S. S. S. is the only remedy that reaches deep-seated blood troubles like Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Eczema, Tetters, etc. It purifies and restores the blood to a healthy, normal condition, and makes it impossible for any poisonous waste materials to accumulate.

If you have an old running sore or an obstinate ulcer that refuses to heal, or are troubled with boils and carbuncles, try S. S. S. It never fails to make a quick and permanent cure of these pests. If your system is run down and you feel the need of a tonic, S. S. S. will strengthen and help you as it has many others to a happy, healthy old age.

S. S. S. cured Mr. H. Borden of Sausville, Va., of a case of Eczema of thirty-five years' standing, after the best physicians in the surrounding country had failed. This was seven years ago, and there has been no return of the disease.

If you are in doubt about your disease, and will send us a statement of your case, our physician will give you any information or advice wanted, for which we make no charge. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases sent to any desiring it. Address Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Question Answered

Yes August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers, and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries. oct-27-17

J. C. Kennedy, Roanoke, Tenn., says, "I cannot say too much for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. One box of it cured what the doctors called an incurable ulcer on my jaw." Cures piles and all skin diseases. Look out for worthless imitations. W. T. Brooks.

"I had stomach trouble twenty years and gave up hope of being cured till I began to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It has done me so much good I called it the savior of my life," writes W. R. Wilkinson, Albany, Tenn. It digests what you eat. W. T. Brooks.

The easiest and most effective method of purifying the blood and invigorating the system is to take DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for cleansing the liver and bowels. W. T. Brooks.
